

SEND Parent Empathy Project

Thursday 25th November 9.30am - 12.00pm

KPMG, 66 Queen Square, Bristol, England, BS1 4BE

How do we want professionals to talk to us?

For many SEND parents, the greatest challenge we face is not our children but the people and professionals in our lives. A lack of understanding and empathy can lead to insensitive comments and a lack of support where it is sorely needed. This is unintentional, and what is needed is more empathy in order to improve things.

A series of focus groups to help improve the way that Bristol professionals relate to SEND parents.

The learning arising from the focus groups will be used to create a training video which will form part of training programmes across the health, social care and educational services in Bristol.
